

hope for the continuance and prosperity of its wholesome principles upon the country.

"LAWRENCE Co. March 22, 1846.

To the Editor of the Banner.

DEAR SIR:—* * * * We have no news, worth noticing—times are dull—though money has been more plenty, the last winter, than for several years, owing no doubt, to the quantity of Pork and Beef bought and slaughtered, at Powhatan and Pocahontas.

As to politics—we are becoming tired of the hurrah about Ashley and Yell. I see no change in public sentiment since the Convention, newspaper scribbles to the contrary notwithstanding. Ashley is the favorite "up in these diggins." No one that I know of influence, has taken, or is likely to take sides. It appears to have settled down with the people, as a matter of course—that Ashley would be re-elected.

I am sorry too see so much jarring about men—stick to fundamental principles, and the people will decide, as to who shall carry out thir measures.

Your ob't Serv't"
